PARIS' WONDERS
ARE DESCRIBED

BY MISS BELLE SHERER IN MOST RECENT LETTER.

TEMPLES OF THE ARTS

And Tombs And Palaces And Cathedrals Were All Inspected—Party Is Now Homeward Bound.

Miss Belle Sherer, whose interesting letters have appeared from time to time in these columns, is now homeward bound after a summer spent in Europe. The party left Southampton on Wednesday of this week, taking passage on the White Star liner
"Tauris," and will reach New York about Sept. 1. Their recent visit in Paris is described in the following narrative:

"The Marlboro"
Paris, Aug. 6, '99.
Now I am in Paris, the gay and lively city, and have decided to take this afternoon off to write letters and rest. Ever since our arrival, we have been on the go and the very atmosphere of the place has gone to my head. I guess for I am so excited and strung up.

The weather is perfectly fine, not too bright and clear, and neither too hot nor cool.

Our hotel is delightful and very centrally located, so it is not hard to find our way anywhere.

Other cities have their charms and fascinations, but none can compare with Paris, so magnificent in all its richness.

The more closely studied, the more striking it becomes, some quarters so sombre with their deserted palaces, others noisy and gay with their outdoor life, and others very picturesque.

The Seine is a sight with its marshlands and barges and the boulevards at night with brilliant illuminations suggest a city of pleasures.

Our first afternoon here we went about the city and into the shops, everything being so delightful. Saw lots of style. The women in their stunning outfits, with painted lips and cheeks, carry themselves beautifully and usually lead into little dogs by their chains.

Wednesday morning dawned beautiful and to make it the more delightful, I received seven letters. After dovouring my mail and my breakfast, we drove to the Louvre, the wonderful place we have so long read about.

It is of course, the most important public building in Paris, both architecturally and because of its treasures of art. It covers forty-five acres and perhaps you can imagine how immense it is and the time it would take to go through it properly.

The picture gallery is grand, comprising three thousand works, almost every school being represented by numerous masterpieces.

One could thus study every kind of art here, but we have had the advantage of seeing the pictures in their own country, so this is a splendid summing-up of all the masters of us.

The I love them all, there is no
one like the Spanish artist, Murillo,
for me.

That first morning we spent hours
in just one wing of the picture gallery, leaving about 12:30 o'clock for Louvre, after which we ride to the Gobelins. This has been the state manufactory of those famous tapestries for three hundred years and we saw many ancient and modern pieces.

In the workshops, the weavers were at work at the looms and it was very interesting to watch them. They can only make a piece the size of the palm of the hand in a day, so you can see how long it takes to finish a great piece. These are made by the weaver.

After a nice ride we came home,
dressed for dinner and went to Grand Opera. My dreams of Grand Opera in Paris were fully realized that night, when we saw Samson and Delilah.

Oh! it was so fine. The vivid contrast between the simple, yet stirring choruses of the Israelites and the passions and warlike ones of the Philistines, the exquisite love-song of Samson and Delilah, and last but not least, the charming ballet-music intense the opera to be ranked among the very best.

Remember, too, that we saw it in the Grand opera-house, the largest in the world, covering an area of 13,500 square feet, and seating 2,150 persons.

There is hardly a variety of marble or even stone that has not been used in its construction. The grand staircase of white marble steps has a balustrade of rosso antico, with a hand-rail formed of Italian onyx. A third colored monolithic marble columns rise to the third floor and there are beautiful ceiling frescoes and handsome doors. The auditorium is fitted up in the most elaborate style. There are five tiers of boxes, the spring of the arches on the fourth tier being adorned with figures and heads. Above are a handsome frieze and numerous small windows in the shape of lyres and paintings on the ceiling representing the hours of day and night.

The stage is immense with great depth, but one of the most striking features of the opera-house is the tower, which is 175 ft. long, 42 ft.
wide and 60 ft. high. There are huge lunettes decorated by sweet columns bearing statues emblematic of the qualities required by an artist.

Imagine us walking out here between nets and seeing all the people in their gorgeous gowns.

Thursday morning we had nine o'clock breakfast and then started out, first visiting the cathedral of Notre Dame, which is beautiful. The windows are lovely, so are all the inside furnishings and the outside is splendid.

Next we went to Sainte Chapelle, the most interesting portion of the Palais de Justice. It is the ancient chapel of the palace and a perfect gem of Gothic architecture, with upper and lower apartments, the latter for the domestic. The upper chapel has seven large windows, framed in beautiful tracery and separated only by buttresses and their stained glass is magnificent, the subjects being taken from the Bible and lives of the saints. One's first impression on entering is that he is going into a large jewel box.

From here we journeyed to the Old Roumain Palace, the only relics still existing being the ruins of the thermo-mas or baths, once connected with it.
The Museo du Cluny is also here and comprises a most valuable collection of medieval objects of art and products of industry. The court is enclosed by a battlemented wall, making one think of Rome and the whole place is thought by some to be the most picturesque spot in Paris.

That afternoon we drove to the tomb of Napoleon I. The tomb is directly under the dome and the sur-eophagus, 13 ft. by 4 1/2 ft. with a depth of 1 1/2 ft., was hewn out of a single block of Siberian porphyry. On the marble pavement, which represents a wreath of laurels, are inscribed the names of his battles and twelve colossal figures surrounding the crypt symbolize his principal victories. Six trophies consist of sixty flags captured in battle.

There is a faint light admitted from above which serves to enhance the solemnity of the scene. After seeing this, we spent the rest of the afternoon taking a lively drive.

Last night we all retired early and this morning spent a long time at the Louvre again, devoting the time to French art and the sculpture gallery.
Tonight we are going to hear "Faust," and I can hardly wait for the time to come. Am going to read over the story before going.

Aug. 11.—Three weeks from today
I'll be in good old U. S. A. Hurrah!
Friday morning we leave for London, where we stay one week, thence through the Shetland Islands, then back for "Home Sweet Home."

We have been on the go continually here in Paris, I "faust" we perfectly grand, the company being exceptionally fine, as many as four hundred people appearing sometimes on the stage. The ballet was fine and the orchestration superb.

Saturday morning we visited the house of Victor Hugo, which was very interesting. I shall read his Les Misérables again when I return.

From there we went to the Chateau of Madame Sevigne, the queen of letters, and went all through it.

Sunday dawned bright and lovely,
like every other day since we've been here, and three of us girls drove way across the city to the Roumain church, which had been recommended to us because of the music. The church was very small but the service was splendid. The music was perfectly beautiful. A beautiful choir, then would sing the Ave Maria and no church was to be seen.

After returning from church we had lunch, after which Aunt Cole took us to St. Cloud, a place some distance from here, up the Seine. The scenery along up the river was lovely and St. Cloud was very pretty too. It contains a lovely woods and is interesting because of its treasures

Next we went to the Pantheon, an edifice of most imposing dimensions, which occupies the site of the tomb of St. Genevieve. It is in form of a Greek cross, is surrounded by a dome 272 ft. in height and the interior contains fine paintings. From here we went to the St. Etienne du Mont, one of the finest of all churches in Paris.

Then home for lunch and we were all fashioned as usual and soon after we went for a glorious drive through the Boulevard de la Chapelle, a magnificent park with miles and miles of lovely roads, forests, artificial lakes, a race course, etc. The favorite promenade of the Parisians and is thronged with carriages, motor cars, bicycles and pedestrians. Before coming home we visited the site of the world's fair and saw the Ferris wheel, glass palace, Elber tower and so on.

Last night we went to grand opera and saw "Lohengrin," which was delightful. This morning we were hurry-ing into my clothes and start off for a long ride, out to the chateau of Chateau de Versailles, made on the subway, the first since leaving New York, and it was not very swift in comparison. The palace, beautifully situated among lovely gardens, was the dearest place and most lovely I have seen, the rooms all so bright and cozy.

We went to the church and saw Josephine's tomb and, turned homeward about 1:30 p. m. My, but we were hungry and because we were so late only had a cold lunch, but even that tasted good.

Now it is time to pack for London.

ARM BROKEN IN
UPSET OF A RIG

Miss Clara Sells of Chicago Was Seriously Injured In An Accident on McKey Boulevard.

Miss Clara Sells of Chicago, age 18 years, was thrown from a buggy on McKey boulevard about six o'clock last evening and had her right arm fractured below the elbow and in addition sustained a severe contusion of the head and serious internal injuries. Carl Otto, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Theodore Otto, who reside at 603 South Academy street, was acting as driver and jumped clear of the vehicle just before it went over. The other occupants were Miss Blanche Sells and Miss Clara Otto. They escaped without injuries more serious than some scratches and bruises. The accident occurred when the buggy, frightened by the approach of an automobile, made a short turn which upset the two-wheeled buggy. At the home of Myron Walker the young woman who was so badly hurt was taken care of temporarily and subsequently removed to the Otto residence.

FEILD BUYING IS GOING ON MERRILY

Buyers Are Swarming Into Tobacco
Growing Districts And New Crop
Is Rapidly Being Sold.

According to the Edgerton Tobacco
Reporter, field buying of the new crop which started in the Vernon county section last week, has been gaining "senior" headway, according to reports reaching us. A swarm of buyers have invaded the growing districts and quite a strong effort made to close contracts for the more promising crops. There is little doubt but several hundred acres have been sold since last report at prices ranging from 9 to 11 cents, but most generally around the 10 cent mark for the wrapper and binder grades. The movement is also spreading toward the southern districts. Something like one hundred acres has been sold in the Lodi section we learn. While a considerable portion of the tobacco is quite a ways from the shed, yet it is making good growth and if favored with suitable weather may make a satisfactory haul.

Topping of the crop is now quite well along and the coming week will witness a general harvest all along the line. Weather conditions continue favorable for the maturing of the crop, though rains would be now welcomed in most sections.

The market for old leaf contains but little news. Cured goods continue to move in moderate sized orders, while there is some trading in '07 and
'08 from growers. Stephen Haight sold 12500 of '07 and '08 packet of Cambridge and by the Society of Equity at London to A. S. Flagg during the week.

The shipments out of storage reach 200 cases for the week to date from this station.

CANDIDATES VOTE DIPLOMATICALLY AND TAKE LEADING POSITIONS

Contestants Will Forfeit Ballot if OLD Subscriptions Are Turned In as NEW—At This Stage of the Contest There is Nothing to Be Gained by Holding Back Your Subscriptions.

To Stop Now is Suicide.
Are you satisfied with the strides you are making? Are you going to win one of the Grand Prizes? No one knows who will win. Many readers think they can select at least one winner; some pick the candidates who are leading at present; some are confident others will be the fortunate ones. It cannot be ascertained how many votes any candidate will cast. It is not wise for anyone to estimate how many votes she or her competitor has lost. Overconfidence often has lost contests exactly similar to this and relaxation at this stage of the contest is suicidal to your chances.

The contest manager desires once more to warn the young ladies about the "new" and "old" subscriptions. A new subscriber is one who was not getting The Gazette when this contest began. It is not permissible under the rules to count as a new subscriber a member of a family taking the paper already, nor any one else at the same address. This has been attempted in several instances already, but is sure to be discovered and the ballot thrown out entirely. Play fair girls! You can win by fair means, and you are sure to get greater enjoyment out of your prize if you take it with a conscience clear of having sought for or obtained votes by unfair means. The Gazette means to adhere to this rule, and will treat all contestants alike in the matter.

The regulation limiting the number of years to be accepted in advance for any subscriber, has met with the hearty approval of our contestants and the community at large. This gives each girl an equal chance to win and who can feel very sure it will be impossible for any one to step in the last moment and purchase a single subscription which will not more than offset the advantage of a subscription which has been in force for two years in the longest period any one subscriber will be allowed to pay for in advance. He can pay any number of years in arrears and to this add two years in advance.

About Second Payments.

One point that the management feels should be made clear to all contestants, is the manner of issuing votes upon second payment to The Gazette by one person, and contestants are requested to note carefully the following: When a person has paid for one year's subscription to The Gazette during the contest and decides to subscribe for another year, the votes issued upon the payment of the second subscription will amount to the difference between the number of votes given at the time of the first payment, and the total amount which would have been given had the subscriber turned in the two-year subscription under the present scale of votes.

For instance: If a man subscribed for The Gazette for one year, delivered by mail, before the present doubled scale of votes had been put into effect, votes would have been issued upon the payment of that subscription to the amount of 7,000. Should he decide to take out another year's subscription at the time votes would be issued to the amount of the difference between the 7,000 to which he was entitled upon the first payment and the amount to which he would be entitled by the payment of a two-year subscription at this time—34,000—or 27,000 votes. The above, of course, refers to country subscribers. In the city, by the same process, the subscriber, upon paying the second subscription would be entitled to the difference between the original votes issued, which would be 14,000, and the total to which he would be entitled for a two-year payment at this time—69,000—or 45,000 votes.

Contestants will do well at this time to induce subscribers who have purchased a subscription for one year, earlier in the contest, to subscribe for a second year, thereby securing the same number of votes that could have been secured had the life of the contest, and votes given accordingly. If you start the paper now and pay something in advance, and wish to pay more later during the contest, you will receive the same number of votes as a new subscriber.

Future Orders.

Don't give up getting a party as a subscriber, simply because he is already taking some other paper for which he has paid in advance. Take his subscription to The Gazette to begin at the expiration of the other paper, and when that time arrives, he will begin to receive The Gazette.

Open Evenings.

For the benefit of those who cannot call during business hours, the office and contest department will be open every evening.

No Long Period Subscriptions Sold.

The motto of our contest is "Fairness to All" and with this thought in view the management has decided to NOT accept a subscription for a longer term than two years IN ADVANCE for by so doing it will make it impossible for any contestant to come to the fore at the last moment and purchase a single subscription for an extended length of time which would not an enormous sum of votes and in some cases probably deprive deserving contestants of the rewards which others who would have been justly theirs. If any of the contestants have been RESTING with the idea that they would come in the last day and take out a number of these subscriptions and thus win a prize, they will now know this is impossible and if they hope to win they will realize it is not to be done through any way but honest effort.

No. 8—Snake Worshipers

Kansas has produced a group of fanatics who are trying to demonstrate their faith, and the wisdom of their creed, by using snakes in their "worship." Some of the brethren of this new church spend their time capturing prairie rattlesnakes, and these reptiles are permitted to bite the devotees as much as they like. As a result, some of the fanatics have had narrow escapes from death, and most of them are suffering from snakebites. It is taken for granted that the worshippers are insane, and they will be suppressed; but it is a question whether they are more foolish than the fellows who swallow coals, not as a sacred rite, but as a diversion. The fanatics of the one crowd have every reason to know that the poison of rattlesnakes will destroy their health, if it doesn't kill them; the fanatics of the other crowd have the accumulated evidence of many centuries, that the old red goods will do the same. It is merely a question of preference as to the poison. One man likes to take his out of a rattlesnake, and the other takes his out of a bottle. The result is pretty much the same, although a variety of death may be the more lingering than the other. The snake poison has some advantages; under its influence a man doesn't bore his friends, or stay up too late at night singing "We Won't Go Home Till Morning."

TIPTON BANK PRESIDENT

ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

Elvert W. Shirk Charged with Misappropriating $25,000 of Institution's Funds.

Tipton, Ind., Aug. 28.—The arrest in Chicago of Elvert W. Shirk, president of the First National bank of this city, the accounts of which recently were found to be $25,000 short, caused a sensation in this city. It is charged that Shirk misappropriated $25,000 of the bank's funds on July 22.

The banker is charged with having misappropriated $25,000 of the bank's funds through drafts made payable to himself.

A report from Indianapolis says the United States authorities had arranged with William H. Marker, former cashier of the bank, for him to go before the United States commissioner to-day and give $10,000 bond to appear before the federal grand jury.

A warrant for Shirk's arrest was issued by United States Commissioner Foster on complaint of Wesley M. Bennett, special government bank examiner, who has been investigating the affairs of the institution since $50,000 of the bank's funds, was missed simultaneously with the disappearance of Noah R. Marker, cashier.

Marker returned to his home city some time ago and said that he had had full authority in handling the bank's funds as he did and that he was in no way to blame for any shortage that might exist. He was arrested and is now under bond.

Friends of the cashier are in the arrest of President Shirk an entirely new phase in the bank's affairs and say that when the latter is tried on the charges made revolutions will be made that will shake the Indiana town.

USE SWORDS TO STOP RIOT.

Black Knights of Pythias Awe Mob with Their Blades.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 28.—Swinging their drawn swords above the heads of the belligerents and declaring that unless the trouble ceased they would use them a company of Negro Knights of Pythias prevented what for a time promised to be a serious race riot, during a parade of the supreme lodge of the Negro Knights of Pythias here.
The trouble began when W. S. Jarboe, a laundryman, accompanied by his wife, drove through the parade of 5,000 negro knights. Several negroes not in the line of march seized the bride of the horse. Mrs. Jarboe seized a whip and struck at the men. Instantly a hundred excited negroes crowded about the wagon. One wrested the whip from the woman, striking her a number of times and inflicting painful bruises.

Missing Crew Is Sighted.

HAVE SUSPECTS IN CRONIN CASE

OFFICER MASON WIRES FROM TO-MAH HE HAS TWO MEN UNDER ARREST.

WARRANTS ARE EXPECTED

One May Be Brought Back Here For Thorough Investigation of Situation.

Ever since Michael Cronin went to his front gate to show a stranger the way to a neighbor's in the dense fog of January 21st and was found a few minutes later dying from wounds on his head, the case has been shrouded in mystery. Detectives employed by District Attorney Fisher and the county board found many clues but they were not tangible and brought forth no real evidence.

Officer William Mason, who worked on the case, had his own theories and working upon them left the city a few days ago on a mysterious errand. This morning a telegram was received from him asking that warrants be issued for a man named Raymond and one named McKelney, both of whom he has located and has under arrest at Tomah.

It is learned that there is some suspicion cast upon the movements of these two men just previous to the death of Cronin and their disappearance at the time of his death. It appears that in lack of direct evidence that but one of the men, Raymond, will be brought to Janesville to an investigation as to his doings at the time of Cronin's death.

District Attorney Fisher stated this afternoon that he expected to have a warrant issued for Raymond's detention as a material witness in the case and he would be brought here to see if Mrs. Cronin, who saw the man who entered her home from the house, could identify him. The companion, McKelney, will probably be watched in case he is needed. The particulars from Officer Mason are most meagre and telephone communication with him showed that Raymond and a woman named Barbara Schultz were arrested on a civil charge by the Tomah authorities. Of McKelney, little is known except that he is a companion of Raymond and both men were seen in the vicinity of Cronin's home previous to his murder.

If either are brought back it will be merely as an investigation and no warrants will be sworn out charging them with the murder for the present.

The mystery has been so long unsolved that it is proper that the district attorney should use every means in his power to solve the mystery and it is understood that the county board will be behind him in the present investigation.

BIRCH WILL REMAIN IN THE BOWER CITY

Physical Director At the Y. M. C. A. Will Continue in That Capacity—No Particulars Known.

J. C. Kline, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., announced this morning that F. E. Birch, who for the past year has been engaged physical director of the local association, will be continued in that capacity. Just what agreement was reached between Mr. Birch and the director's committee, whether he is to continue under a yearly contract or at an increased rate of salary, Mr. Kline speaking for the board of directors refused to divulge. The many friends of Mr. Birch rejoice that he is to remain, as it was feared that he might leave the city to accept one of numerous offers he has received.

DARB. GRIFFIN HAS GONE FROM THE CITY

Town Character Allowed Fifteen Minutes to Depart from City, or Else Go to Jail.

"Darb" Griffin, a well-known character in this city, noted chiefly for his love of "red-eye" and "nose-paint," is an outcast from the city. "Darb" has long been tolerated for his weakness, but at last the patience of the authorities became worn and this morning when he was brought into the court for the same old charge of drunkenness the judge allowed him fifteen minutes to leave the city, suspending a sentence of four dollars and costs or fifteen days in jail. Steve Kelley and "Jim" Jeffries, the latter the musketeer of the famous fighter, were also brought up on drunkenness charges and given fines of two dollars and costs, but not being supplied with the coin of the realm both will seek rest and retirement for four days at Dr. Sheritt Scheibel's sanitarium.

MUSIC COMEDY "LO" PLEASED BIG HOUSE

Bright Lines and Beautiful Lyrics and Stage Settings Features of New Production.

Under Eliza's auspices the new musical comedy, "Lo" (which is a farce, shortening of "Four 12s"), the Red Man, and not the familiar interpretation, was given its initial evening at the Myers theatre last evening and if the enthusiastic reception given the piece here may be taken as an indication, it is bound to make "big money" all along the line.

The plot which involves the return of a rather intemperate "Strongheart" to the tomb of his ancestors, or something of the sort, doesn't often succeed in being much more than incidental and when it does there is apt to be reason for wishing that it didn't. For the dramatic moments, as "work-up" at present, are about as conventional and thrilling as "the solemn part" in the average lodge initiation. However, the same farce account for background, an array of gorgeous costumes, a line of glib conversation, and a series of swiftness, sometimes reminiscent, but always pleasing, and that is all that ought to be expected from a musical comedy plot, anyway. Live bits in ancient Aztec temple where the deification took place provided the latest local innovation in stage realism.

All through the piece O. Henry and his collaborator, Franklin P. Adams, are laughing good naturedly at the humors of the stage and its people, at their stock jokes and sentimental songs, as well as having plenty of fun with the follies and fashions of the people of the larger world. "Little Old Main Street" is a drive at the numerous "tribes of 'Dear Old Broadway' songs, and 'For Love is All That Matters' lines up the whole array of sentimental songs and pronouncements a benediction with a laugh lurking just around the corner.

There is a whole avalanche of snappy new slang and smart sayings and snappy John E. Young and dainty Dorothy Brommer know just how to pass it over the footlights. Their burlesque specialty is a big hit and their singing and dancing and acting all along the way keep the audience in constant good humor.

Robert Wilson, the newspaper correspondent, Elizabeth Goudall, as the courtesan, and Juliette Lange as the Yucatan maiden are some of the other excellent people in the cast.

The music is catchy and as interpreted by Chander's orchestra from the Davidson theatre, Milwaukee, was particularly alluring. Some of the listeners claimed to trace a faint resemblance between the statue song and a portion of one of Greig's suites, which would seem to indicate that the score is "classy" as well as very pretty.

The Elks and their friends and some of the talent partook of refreshments in the lodge rooms after the performance. Despite the sultry weather the entertainment of the large audience and the lodge just about "broke even" on the venture.

MISSING YOUTH HAS RETURNED TO HOME

Joseph Hill Returns Home After Weeks Absence With Drunken Companion.

This morning Joseph Hill the seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hill, after a week's mysterious absence, returned to his parents home 213 Riverside St., after an exciting six days experience. Last Saturday young Hill and a companion William McComb who had been working for his father, disappeared after an evening spent about town. Search in Whitewater failed to reveal any trace of the missing pair and both parents were almost insane with anxiety. Young Hill who is seventeen temporarily had eleven dollars when he left home last Saturday and according to his story told this morning he returned a sadder but wiser youth. It appears that McComb, who has a wife and four children, has several times deserted them before so his action as not surprising. Young Hill on the other hand had never been away from home and his trip from Janesville to Madison, thence late town is like a night mare to him. McComb he says, stood drunk as long as young Hill had money and then wanted him to beg for food which the latter refused. Finding a chance to escape, his companion Hill left McComb and came to Janesville on a freight train making friends with the train crew so that he reached the city safely.

His prolonged absence has caused much worry to his parents and sister and the returned wanderer was given a warm reception by all the family when he reached home in time for breakfast having fasted for nearly two days.

FILES COMPLAINT WITH COMMISSION

City Attorney Maxfield Presents City's Grievances Against Street Railway to State Authorities.

In order to hurry up the late Mr. Edwin P. Maxfield of Philadelphia, administrator of the estate which owns the Janesville street railway, and pave the way for an action in circuit court to annul the franchise, in case the local demands for better service are not promptly heeded, City Attorney H. L. Maxfield last evening forwarded to the state railway commission an exhaustive complaint against the company containing all the charges originally preferred in his communication to the common council. It is believed that in this way the company can be prevented from extending the "reasonable time" allowed it for "getting busy" into a very unreasonable period.

Mr. Maxfield acknowledged the receipt of the notice sent to him some weeks ago with a letter wherein he stated that he was just starting on a vacation trip and would stop over in Janesville on his way home, on or about Sept. 15. If the company does not accede to the just demands, the city attorney intends to spare no effort to have the action to annul the franchise tried during the February term of circuit court. The matter will be taken up during the October term of the commission and it is hoped that a decision may be forthcoming by November 1. The decision, if favorable to the city, will be in the form of an order directing the company to make numerous improvements in its road-bed, equipment, and rolling stock.

SCHOOL COMMENCES ON SEPTEMBER 7TH

Only Ten Days More of Vacation Left For the School Children of the City.

Ten days more of vacation for pleasure and all sorts of fun, are allowed the school children of the city, and then on Tuesday, September 7, the day after Labor Day, they will have to return to their studies. During the summer months the janitors and other workmen have been busily engaged in making repairs, repainting, scrubbing and cleaning halls and rooms and other necessary tasks, so that when the children come back everything will be neat and clean and in ship-shape order. While a number of the old pupils have dropped out or graduated, their loss will be made up, probably by new arrivals, so that the enrollment this year will no doubt be as large, or perhaps larger, than in former years.

Out of two thousand pupils in the public schools last year, there were a number who were back in one or two studies and were thus prevented from going to a higher grade. About fifty of these have been studying or have been tutored during the summer, and on next Wednesday City Superintendent Howell will conduct special examinations for them. The following day teachers who desire to secure certificates to teach in the Janesville schools will take examinations.

TAKE MUCH INTEREST IN THE GAMES TODAY

Doubleheaders in Commercial Baseball League Draw Big Crowds Of Fans This Afternoon.

Today, the end of the playing season of the Commercial baseball league was marked by intense enthusiasm and interest among the fans who have been watching the games and the players who have been taking part. Perhaps the game that is being watched with most interest this afternoon is the regularly scheduled game between the Janesville Machine company and the Parker Pen company. The machine company are now slightly in the lead, but if the Parker Pen company win today, the teams will be tied and another game will have to be played to decide the tie. On the other hand, the machine company are the victors, their title to the championship cup will be clear. The game was started at the fair grounds at two o'clock. Following this game the Machine company-Parker game, the machine company will meet the Lewis Knitting company also, if the weather permits. Other contests scheduled are: Y. M. C. A. vs. Lewis Knitting company at Dunk's pasture at two o'clock; Wisconsin Carriage company vs. Gazette Printing company at Athletic Park at two o'clock and Wisconsin Carriage company vs. Y. M. C. A. at Athletic Park, after first games.

Players in the league teams are looking forward to the big banquet which is to be held sometime soon and to pay for which an exhibition game will be played.

The Lewis Knitting Company failed to produce a team this afternoon and forfeited the game to the Y. M. C. A.

TEN WILL SEEK A HIGHER EDUCATION

Graduates Of Janesville High School Going To Normal Schools and Colleges.

A number of graduates from the high school have already signified their intention of going away to school this fall. Three will go to normal schools, three to the state university, and four intend to enter Lawrence college at Appleton. Besides these there will probably be others who have not communicated with City Superintendent Howell as yet in regard to their standings. Miss Phoebe McManus, of the class of '09 will go to Milwaukee Monday to enter the state normal school there. The Misses Mary and Alice Roberts will enter Whitewater Normal this fall. Charles and Ralph Tippet and Miss Julia Austin and a brother will be enrolled at Lawrence College and Vincent Koch, John E. Sheridan, and Miss Ethel Pond will commence their studies at the state university at Madison.

DEATH AND PANIC IN FIRE.

Gasoline Explosion in Iowa Canning Factory Is Fatal.

Waverly, Ia., Aug. 28.—In a panic of 300 employees of the Kelly Canning factory to escape from the second floor of the cannery department, where a gasoline tank had exploded and thrown fire over the room, George McRoberts was killed, three persons were probably fatally injured and a score of others were severely hurt. The building was destroyed, causing $100,000 damage.

Most of the employees are women and young men and girls. All were excited by the shower of flames and with cries of alarm and fear ran for the stairs and the windows. Many leaped to the ground, falling on and hurting each other. When all had been taken from the building it was found that Mrs. Walter Davis, Irene Lockley and George Miller had been so severely injured that they probably will die.

START TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7

To Prepare Yourself for one of the Positions that will be Filled by the Students of the JANESVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE

Plenty of Positions for those who study the right systems in a good school.

Good times are here. This coming year will be the best for positions and salaries in business college history. There will be plenty of good positions for those who thoroughly prepare themselves.

The key to a good position is "preparation". You must be WELL and FITLY prepared. You cannot BUY a position from any business school. But you can WIN one.

Master 20th Century Bookkeeping and Gregg Shorthand, and your position is SURE.

NO one can GUARANTEE you a position.

The Best possible guarantee, and the ONLY one you NEED, is one you give yourself—thorough preparation.

The work is there; prepare to do it. And prepare yourself BETTER and SOONER than the other person.

We show you here what we have done with other young people of practically the same ability as you, in order that you may have the opportunity to look about for yourself among your friends and see what a GOOD BUSINESS COURSE CAN DO FOR YOU.

Miss Florence Brown, a bright high school girl from Evansville, Wis., after just a year of work with the Baker Mfg. Co., is now earning $55 a month with the Henny Huggy Co., Freeport, Ill., a branch of the Stollie Plow Co.

Miss Minnie Hoppe, of Baraboo, Wis., received $10 a week in her first position as stenographer.

Miss Emma Isenborg, Baraboo, at the end of three months, was earning $65 per month as stenographer in Chicago. Miss Isenborg had taught school for three terms.

Harry C. Reynolds, Beloit, received $55 a month after having worked considerably less than a year.

Miss Margaret Brown, Beloit, refused a position at $60 a month in another city to remain in Beloit. Miss Brown received $10 a week and her board in her first position.

Earl W. Parker, Beloit, was earning $12.20 in Arizona after less than a year's experience. Mr. Parker passed a competitive examination over the heads of students from 25 other schools, to secure this position.

Miss Gladys Henderson, Beloit, was earning $65 a month after less than a year's experience. Miss Henderson's initial salary was $12.

Clyde Shinnell, Beloit, in about two months from the time he left school, was earning $55. Today he has a much better position in Milwaukee with the H. W. Johnson-Manville Company.

Miss Norma Crosby, of California, received $75 a month as stenographer for the Newcastle Fruit Co., California, as initial salary. And she is worth every cent of it.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL YOUNG MAN, AND THE ONE WHO HAS WON THE MOST RAPID ADVANCEMENT SINCE LEAVING OUR SCHOOL 17 MONTHS AGO, IS CHARLES E. BAKER, BELOIT. MR. BAKER COMPLETED OUR REGULAR BUSINESS COURSE OF 20TH CENTURY BOOKKEEPING AND GREGG SHORTHAND THOROUGHLY. HE WAS PLACED WITH THE BELOIT DAILY NEWS. HERE HE CAME IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH PERHAPS THE FINEST EQUIPPED NEWSPAPER IN WISCONSIN OUTSIDE OF MILWAUKEE—A PAPER UP TO THE MINUTE IN ALL ITS METHODS, AND ENJOYING THE DISTINCTION OF HAVING A YEARLY REVENUE GREATER IN PROPORTION TO ITS CIRCULATION, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE MIDDLE WEST. HERE HE MET MEN IN THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY. HE PROFITED BY HIS SURROUNDINGS, AND WAS PLACED AT THE HEAD OF THE CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT WHICH HE MANAGED WITH PROGRESSIVENESS AND JUDGMENT.

FIFTEEN MONTHS FROM THE TIME HE STARTED WITH THE DAILY NEWS AT $11 PER WEEK, HE WAS TRANSFERRED TO THE MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE, AS ONE OF THEIR DISTRICT MANAGERS OF CIRCULATION, AT $1300 A YEAR. MR BAKER WRITES US THAT HE IS DOING HIS WORK WELL AND THAT HE STILL HAS GOOD CHANCES TO KEEP GOING UPWARD.

We have detailed these few specific cases to show that merit and hard work will win, and that advancement is not the child of accident.

We give below a representative number of our students, showing the kind of training and position held by each. These young men and women are simply a good average of the total number of students who attend our schools. They had a reasonably good education before they took up their business courses; but the one thing that characterizes them strongly is that they learned to work.

Stenography is a good profession for the intelligent, earnest, boy or girl. It enables you to gain business experience quickly and to secure it from men who are managing the business. It opens opportunities for your advancement, and provides you with a pleasant, comfortable living while doing so.

The stenographer holds a position of trust and confidence. Responsibility brings the stenographer a good salary.

Your brains properly trained mean money—brains that will earn you MORE money every year you work.

Every bit of experience adds to your ability to earn money. It gives you more opportunities for advancement. Your salary will grow with your experience.

Salaries for stenographers and bookkeepers are good and are paid the year 'round. Many of our young ladies are earning after only three or four months' experience from $40 to $65 a month. Some START at a higher figure than these.

Young men are in such demand that employers are paying from $35 to $60 a month for boys right out of school with no experience.

But in business as everywhere else the BEST students get the best positions and salaries. Common sense and willingness to work are at a premium and bring good money.

You can see the course they took; you can see how much experience each has; you can see the work they are doing; you can see the average salary.

These facts are for your information—for you to think about—for you to think whether you with our training cannot do as well.

We do not claim that we, ourselves, placed all these students in their positions. Some had friends who knew of their positions; others had positions in view when they entered school. About a dozen of these names appeared in a former issue.

Some of these young people have worked a little more than a year; some have not worked ten days.
Their general average time worked since leaving school is 7 1/2 months. Their general average salary per month is $45.

To be a high-class stenographer, you must choose a shorthand system which not only can be written at the very highest speeds, but which can be read like print. GREGG SHORTHAND is the fastest and most legible shorthand writing system extant. It is easily learned. Gregg Shorthand is written like longhand, without different positions above and below the line, and without shading. It has no vertical or awkward strokes in its entire alphabet. It does not make one letter heavy and another light. It can be written with any instrument that will make a mark upon any material.

By far the greatest number of stenographers in Wisconsin write Gregg Shorthand. The stenographers holding the best positions in Beloit, write Gregg Shorthand. Statistics show that GREGG SHORTHAND IS TAUGHT IN MORE SCHOOLS IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA THAN ANY THREE OTHER SYSTEMS.

This means that more than three times as many young people will take up the study of Gregg Shorthand than any other system, this year. Their judgment is good; they are progressive.

Business men prefer stenographers who use Gregg Shorthand because they know Gregg Writers can read their notes when "cold," and read them right.

Does the school that you will attend teach GREGG SHORTHAND?

20th CENTURY BOOKKEEPING is the very latest and most practical method of imparting to you the fundamentals of bookkeeping.

This system was devised by Public Accountants together with some of the very best business college men in the country. This system is kept thoroughly up-to-date. As the forms in actual business change, so do the forms in 20th Century Bookkeeping. All 20th Century notes, drafts, checks, bill-heads, letter-heads, order-blanks, etc., are photographed copies of forms used by the most progressive business houses.

One of our young men, Thomas Nelson, First-Asst. to Mr. Moxet, Financial Agent, Berlin Machine Works, a $2,500,000 corporation, says:

"I found the Manufacturing Set of the Berlin Machine Works so similar to the work set in my 20th Century work in school that I took hold of the books with almost no explanation from Mr. Moxet."

"I like my work here with Mr. Moxet, and believe that 20th Century Bookkeeping gave me just the groundwork I needed."

Thomas Nelson, B. M. W.

20th Century Bookkeeping will do the same for you that it did for Mr. Nelson.

DOES THE SCHOOL WHICH YOU WILL ATTEND TEACH 20th CENTURY BOOKKEEPING?

The Warner Instrument Co., makers of the celebrated Warner "Auto-Motor," the most accurate device for recording the speed and distance traveled of automobiles, railway trains, motor boats, etc., have practically an "exclusive equipment" of Beloit Business College stenographers. Asst. Gen. Mgr. A. S. Koto, has been well acquainted with the work of our students for a number of years and knows what they can do.

WARNER INSTRUMENT CO., Beloit, Wis., May 13, 1909.

BELOIT BUSINESS COLLEGE, Beloit, Wisconsin.

My dear Mr. Williamson:

In reply to your inquiry of yesterday, I am pleased to advise that the majority of our girls are Beloit Business College graduates. In fact, we have nine girls in the office who have been students in your college. I can also, I believe, truthfully state that in nearly every instance, we have been very well satisfied with your students.

I feel, furthermore, that if any young lady or gentleman will attend to business and buckle down to good hard work, there is no question but they will be able to handle a position in a satisfactory manner and with credit to themselves and the Beloit Business College, after having completed your course.

I believe you are very thorough in your work and I would be very glad at any time to recommend the Beloit Business College.

Yours very truly,

WARNER INSTRUMENT CO., per A. S. Koto, Asst. Mgr.

ASK-W.

Business men who have used our students as stenographers, give the following result of our methods of training. They are "honest in their statements and sincere in their belief."

Mr. Wilcox, of the Lewis Knitting Co., Janesville, is a man who is not afraid to speak his conviction. He would not permit the publication of this letter unless he meant what he said:

LEWIS KNITTING CO., Janesville, Wis., June 5, 1908.

BELOIT BUSINESS COLLEGE, Beloit, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:

We are glad to be able to report that Miss Westenhaver, the young lady stenographer furnished by you, is giving good satisfaction.

We would not, from our experience, hesitate to refer any one in need of such office help to you. Very truly,

LEWIS KNITTING CO.

JLW-W.

Since writing this letter, Mr. Wilcox has made good his word, and has referred a number of business men to us.

Hunt, Helm, Ferris & Co., Harvard, Ill., are one of the largest manufacturers of ship-kind in the world. They make farm specialties such as the Star Line of Hay-carriers, Litter-Carriers, Tank-trailers, Windmill Regulators, Screen Door-Flingers, etc.

Every year they ask us for a number of young men and women. Their work is difficult and very heavy, and they have a good opportunity to test stenographers and bookkeepers.

They have had students from almost every school in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin, and thus came to the conclusion expressed in the last paragraph of the following letter:

HUNT-HELM-FERRIS & CO., Harvard, Ill., 4-9-08.

BELOIT BUSINESS COLLEGE, Beloit, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:

Answering yours of the 28th ult., would say that we have found the young men and women we have gotten from your business college very satisfactory. We have had a number of young men from your school work for us that we count among the best that we have ever had.

We are inclined to think that a scholar is given more attention in your school than in some of the other schools, and we believe this is the reason they do better when they get a position.

Yours very truly,

HUNT, HELM, FERRIS & CO.

Our students hold their first positions with high-grade firms. They make good from the start.

Beloit Business College training plus common sense, energy, and hard work, brings success.

Character counts in business as in everything else. Every student has his strong points—points for which an employer will pay money.

It is as much our business to develop these strong points and show you where to sell them, as it is for us to teach you bookkeeping and shorthand.

We teach you how and where to use your business education. We start you and keep assisting you from position to position. Once our student; always our student. There is nothing we will not do to make you successful in your work.

YOU must be successful before WE can be successful.

To secure the best value for your time and money, to insure the best start in your business life, you must not only study the right systems in a good school, but you must enter a school whose manager can show you how to make the MOST of your training.

A school whose manager is a man of thorough education and breadth of experience, a man who knows the ins and outs of business life among business men who use stenographers and bookkeepers.

And above all else, a man who realizes that YOUR success is HIS success. Absolute honesty in this respect much characterizes YOUR school's manager.

If you would be as successful as THESE young people, you must be as well prepared. Your interests and training must be watched as closely. YOU must have all the advantages THEY had.

But you must not wait. Procrastination means lost time—lost opportunity—lost money.

If you want the very best training at the best time, enter one of our schools Tuesday, September 7, 1909.

Mail the coupon today.

ability would be afforded elsewhere. Every year we enroll hundreds of young men and women from the woods, from the corn fields, from behind the plow, from good farm homes, from the small cities, from the stores, from the shops, from day laborers, from the ranks of clerks; school teachers—just such persons as yourself; same energies, same education, same talents, same means. OTHERS ARE DOUBLING THEIR EARNING POWER, MAKING MONEY AND BECOMING INDEPENDENT, WHY NOT YOU? This is the one "START" which any and all have the means and sense to make. Don't let prejudice nor lack of knowledge of business opportunities prevent you from investigating. Take the word of someone who has started hundreds and knows what "THERE IS IN IT."

We have never had a student who did not better his former condition and increase his earning power and opportunities by taking our commercial courses, no matter where he started from.

During the past three years over forty public school teachers decided to leave off country school teaching. Any one of them secured positions at a higher initial salary than they ever received after years of teaching. In all the above positions promotion is sure to follow. We could mention hundreds of other incidents, space will not permit. Enough has been said to prove a business education can be gotten in a shorter time, will cost less, and in the end pay a bigger salary and afford easier and better opportunities than any other kind of education.

Wouldn't you like to prepare for something better, to succeed like others are doing? Wouldn't you like to be a stenographer, bookkeeper, cashier, correspondent or an office manager in a bank or office or business house? Wouldn't you like to earn more money? Young people who are not satisfied with their present positions and future prospects should consider well a few months' preparation to better themselves.

ration to better themselves.

Don't go on "hearsay," but investigate this matter for yourself. There are opportunities in the city which you never imagined. Why take a chance on some line of work where you stand to fail when your success in business is absolutely certain? A talent to succeed in anything will pay you tenfold more in business. Honesty and work are the only secrets for business success. Anyone should have these qualities, therefore anyone can make a success in business.

We annually give dozens and dozens of young men and women of good character the RIGHT START and annually place these young people in positions paying from $35 a month to $1500 a year.

Positions of trust and responsibility, positions at the "BRAIN END" of the business under the eye of shrewd, successful, wealthy business men, who will reward merit as it deserves. CHAPTER II.

There was good copy for the newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic in the news that the famous lyric soprano, Margherita da Cordova, whose real name was Miss Margaret Donna, was engaged to Mons. Konstantin Logotheti, a Greek financier of large fortune established in Paris, and almost as well known to art collectors as to needy governments, would-be promoters, and mothers of marriageable daughters.

The engagement was made known during the height of the London season, not long after they had both been at a week-end party at Craythorpe, Lord Creedmore's place in Derbyshire, where they had apparently come to a final understanding after knowing each other more than two years. Margaret was engaged to sing at Covent Garden that summer, and the first mention of the match was coupled with the information that she intended to cancel all her engagements and never appear in public again. The result was that the next time she came down the stage to sing the Waltz Song in "Roméo and Juliet" she received a tremendous ovation before she opened her handsome lips, and another when she had finished the air; and she spent one of the happiest evenings she remembered.

Though she was at heart a nice English girl, not much over 24 years of age, the orphan daughter of an Oxford don who had married an American, she had developed, or fallen, to the point at which very popular and successful artists cannot live at all without applause, and are not happy unless they receive a certain amount of adulation. Even the envy they excite in their rivals is delicious, if not almost necessary to them.

Margaret's real nature had not been changed by a success that had been altogether phenomenal and had probably not been approached by any soprano since Mme. Bonanni; but a second nature had grown upon it and threatened to hide it from all but those who knew her very well indeed. The inward Margaret was honest and brave, rather sensitive, and still generous; the outward woman, the prima donna whom most people saw, was self-possessed to a fault, imperious when contradicted, and coolly ruthless when her artistic fame was at stake.

The two natures did not agree well together, and made her wretched when they quarreled, but Logotheti, who was going to take her for better, for worse, professed to like them both, and was the only man she had ever known who did. That was one reason why she was going to marry him, after having refused him about a dozen times.

She had loved another man as much as she was capable of loving, and at one time he had loved her, but a misunderstanding and her devotion to her art had temporarily separated them; and later, when she had almost told him that she would have him if he asked her, he had answered her quite frankly that she was no longer the girl he had cared for, and he had suddenly disappeared from her life altogether. So Logotheti, brilliant, very rich, gifted, gay, and rather exotic in appearance and manner, but tenacious as a bloodhound, had won the prize after a struggle that had lasted two years. She had accepted him without much enthusiasm at the last, and without any great show of feeling.

"Let's try it," she had said, and he had been more than satisfied.

After a time, therefore, they told their friends that they were going to "try it."

The only woman with whom the great singer was at all intimate was the Countess Leven, Lord Creedmore's daughter, generally called "Lady Maud," whose husband had been in the diplomatic, and, after vainly trying to divorce her, had been killed in St. Petersburg by a bomb meant for a minister. The explosion had been so terrific that the dead man's identity had only been established by means of his pocket-book, which somehow escaped destruction. So Lady Maud was a childless widow of eight-and-twenty. Her father, when he had no prospect of ever succeeding to the title, had been a successful barrister, and then a hard-working member of parliament, and he had been from boyhood the close friend of Margaret's father. Hence the intimacy that grew up quickly between the two women when they at last met, though they had not known each other as children, because the lawyer had lived in town and his friend in Oxford.

"So you're going to try it, my dear!" said Lady Maud, when she heard the news.

She had a sweet low voice, and when she spoke now it was a little sad; for she had "tried it," and it had failed miserably. But she knew that the trial had not been a fair one; the only man she had ever cared for had been killed in South Africa, and she had not even the excuse of having been engaged to him, she had married with indifference the first handsome man with a good name and a fair fortune who offered himself. He chanced to be a Russian diplomatist, and he turned out a spendthrift and an unfaithful husband. She was too kind-hearted to be glad that he had been blown to atoms by dynamite, but she was much too natural not to enjoy the liberty restored to her by his destruction; and she had not the least intention of ever "trying it" again.

"You don't sound very enthusiastic," laughed Margaret, who had no misgivings to speak of, and was generally a cheerful person. "If you don't encourage me I may not go on."

"There are two kinds of ruined gamblers," answered Lady Maud; "there are those that still like to watch other people play, and those who cannot bear the sight of a roulette table. I'm one of the second kind, but I'll come to the wedding all the same, and cheer like mad, if you ask me."

"That's nice of you, and I wish you would help me with my wedding gown, dear. It would be dreadful if I looked like Juliet, or Elan, or Lucia! Everybody would laugh, especially as Konstantin is rather of the Romeo type, with his almond-shaped eyes and his little black mustache! I suppose he really is, isn't he?"

"Perhaps—just a little. But he is a very handsome fellow."

Lady Maud's lips quivered, but Margaret did not see.

"Oh, I know!" she cried, laughing and shaking her head. "You once called him 'exotic,' and he is—but I'm awfully fond of him all the same, isn't that enough to marry on when there's everything else? You really will help me with my gown, won't you? You're such an angel!"

"Oh, yes, I'll do anything you like. Are you going to have a regular knock-down-and-drag-out smash at St. George's? The usual thing?"

Lady Maud did not despise slang, but she made it sound like music.

"No," answered Margaret, rather regretfully. "We cannot possibly be married till the season's quite over, or perhaps in the autumn, and then there will be nobody here. I'm not sure when I shall feel like it! Besides, Konstantin hates that sort of thing."

"Do you mean to say that you would like a show wedding in Harrower Square?" inquired Lady Maud.

"I've never done anything in a church," said the prima donna, rather enigmatically, but as if she would like to.

"Anything in a church," repeated her friend, vaguely thoughtful, and with the slightest possible interrogation. "That's a funny way of looking at it!"

Margaret was a little ashamed of what she had said so naturally.

"I think Konstantin would like to have it in a chapel-of-ease in the Old Kent Road!" she said, laughing. "It's sometimes talks of being married in town and driving off in a hansom! Then he suggests going to Constantinople and getting it done by the patriarch, who is his uncle. Really, that would be rather smart, wouldn't it?"

"Distinctly," assented Lady Maud. "But if you do that, I'm afraid I cannot help you with the wedding gown. I don't know anything about the dress of a Paganote bride."

"Konstantin says they dress very well," Margaret said. "But of course it is out of the question to do anything so ridiculous. It will end in the chapel-of-ease, I'm sure. He always has his own way. That's probably why I'm going to marry him, just because he insists on it. I don't see any other very convincing reason."

Lady Maud could not think of anything to say in answer to this; but as she really liked the singer she thought it was a pity.

Paul Griggs, the veteran man of letters, smiled rather sadly when she met him shopping in New Bond street, and told him of Margaret's engagement. He said that most great singers married because the only way to the divorce court led up the steps of the altar. Though he knew the world he was not a cynic, and Lady Maud herself wondered how long it would be before Logotheti and his wife separated.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"JUST this time," most of us are forever saying.

"Yes, I know it's bad to work in the dark but I'll just finish this story."

"Yes, I know I ought not to eat rabbit, but I want to eat a little just this time."

"Just this time" that makes up the burden that gets the camel's back ready for breaking. And it's the last "just this time" that is the straw that breaks the camel's back.

If you don't want to break the camel's back do the right thing not next time but NOW.

Don't have any "just this time."

Are you a good loser?

If you aren't, I don't want to play cards with you and neither probably do your friends.

I played with a woman the other day who took her losses so much to heart that she fairly spoiled the game. Every time that she failed to win she either took her partner to task or complained bitterly of the run of the cards.

Being a poor loser, I am ashamed to say, is more frequently a feminine than a masculine trait.

To be sure, I do not like any better than the poor loser the opponent who doesn't care enough whether he wins or loses to make the game worth playing. But the kind of opponent I love is the one who plays with all his heart while he plays and then says at the end of the game when the score has been added up and he finds he has lost—

"The best man won."

Are you that kind—not only at the card table but also in life?

"Do it now" is a little sign that hangs in many thousand offices.

A wise businessman whom I know, when he found that one of his clerks had hung it over his desk, admonished—

"Unless you have something more important to do first."

I also want to suggest an amendment: "Unless you would do better work to put it off until later." Procrastination is sometimes a duty.

Did you ever say, "I will finish this bit of embroidery, this piece of sewing tonight," and then work on it when you were far too tired to do good work, simply because you did so want to get it done?

Work done under such conditions is not only apt to be poor work, but it takes a disproportionate amount out of you.

It sometimes takes as much courage to give up a duty as a pleasure.

But it's courage that pays.
